

Problem :- The mass of a H-atom is less than the sum of the masses of a proton and electron. Why is this?

Solution :- Because when proton and electron combine to make a H-atom, then some of the mass changes into energy, known as binding energy.