Tips and Tricks
Application of Derivative:

Basically Derivative of any curve at a particular point is its slope at that point and as we know normal is perpendicular to the curve.That means slope of the normal * derivative at that point = -1

If we know the slope and the point from which a line passes we can write equation of tangent as well as normal to a curve.