The probabilities that A and B will die within a year are p and q respectively, then the probability that only one of them will be alive at the end of the year is _____