

What products would be formed when a nucleotide from DNA containing thymine is hydrolyzed?

Ans: When a nucleotide is hydrolyzed, we get a nucleoside and phosphoric acid. In this case, the nucleotide contains thymine, so the products will be thymine β -D-2-deoxyribose and phosphoric acid.